

INSTITUTE FOR EARLY LEARNING
THROUGH THE ARTS

Invites you to:

A Wolf Trap Institute Family-Based Residency

Presented by Wolf Trap Master Teaching Artist Kofi Dennis

What to expect:

- An opportunity for families to sing, move, and learn together!
- Siblings are welcome!
- Parents learn strategies for incorporating singing, dancing, and drama into children's daily routines.
- Be prepared with a scarf/bandana and something to shake, tap, or bang.

Wolf Trap Institute's Family-Based Residency program provides children ages zero to six years with holistic early childhood music, drama, and movement program aimed at supporting the children's intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development. Kofi will incorporate books such as "The Mitten" and "The Snowy Day" with a curriculum focus on "Winter."

Zoom meeting link will be provided to participating families.

Dates and Times

Thursdays at 5:00 p.m.

February 11, 18, 25

March 4, 11

For questions, please contact: Lydia Jones Nunn at lydia.nunn@pgcps.org

Teaching Artist: Kofi Dennis

Kofi Dennis has been a Master Teaching Artist with Wolf Trap Institute for Early Learning Through the Arts since 1998. He is a graduate of the School of Performing Arts, University of Ghana, and studied early childhood and adolescent education at Komenda College, University of Cape Coast. Since 2004, Kofi has teamed up with the faculty of the World Children's Choir to present African drumming for concepts and for peace. He performs as half of the duo Anansegromma, presenting music, dance, drums, games, and stories.